Organisational Coach and Consultant

Lyn Traill is a Brisbane/Gold Coast –based Alliance Partner of Newfield Institute. Alongside a successful career as an educational consultant, author, speaker and training director of a leading vocational college, Lyn has been in demand as a management consultant since 1997, specialising in executive coaching, culture analysis and customised training.

Lyn excels in effective diagnostic processes and communication skills, implementation of the strategic plan, coaching and mentoring programs, team building and effective team leadership.

She has a proven record in her ability to assist organisations in the change process. Using the ontological perspective, she is able to create a unique process that allows each person to unleash the being required to become a leader and the action required to be effective in the leadership role.

Lyn's warm and perceptive personality allows her to easily engage people. Her passion and humour are infectious, allowing others to feel readily at ease. She is very comfortable with an action learning approach and is able to flexibly adapt to the needs of her clients.

Lyn is now predominantly focusing her energy on the Ontological approach in all work she undertakes in the public and private sector.

Her book, Sizzling at Seventy – Victim to Victorious, is her personal account of how ontological processes transformed her life.
